STATE OF WISCONSIN.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT. A. Proclamation.

DEATH OF WILLIAM E, SMITH, It becomes my sad duty to announce to the people of the state of Wisconsin that William E-Smith, late governor, died at Milwaukee on the 13th day of February, 1888. He became a citizen of Wisconsin in 1849, and has been called by the people of his adopted state to fill many offices of honor and trust, with the confidence that every duty would be faithfully performed. He was upright and efficient as a legislator, having been a member of the as-sembly in 1851, state senator in 1958 and 1850, and speaker of the assembly in 1971; he was faithful and judicious as state treasurer, from 1806 to 1870; and was able, predent, conscientions and just as governor from 1878 to 1832; while his whole life has been that of an exemplary christian, fit to be studied by all for the urbanity, dignity and purity therein displayed. In his death the state has untimely lost one of its worthiest citizens, and it is befitting that we

Now, therefore, to reverence the example of this devoted and eminent life, I do hereby designate and appoint the following citizens of the state as a committee to attend the solemn obsequies of the departed: Ex-Governora Nelson Dewey, James T. Lowis, Lucius Fairchild, Wil liam R. Taylor and Harrison Ludington, Chief Justice Orsamus Cole, Lieutenant Governor Sam S. Fifield, Speaker Earl P. Finch, Hon. Alexander Mitchell, Hon, George H. Paul, Hon Edward D. Holton, Hon. Horaco Rublec, Hon-Davi I Atwood, Hon. Geo. W. Burchard, Hon. Quartus H. Barrou, Hon. Andrew E. Elmore Hon. J. G. Thorpe and Hon. Fred. W. Horn.

ERNST. G. TIMBER, Secretary of State. Mrs. M. T. Park, wife of the assistant secretary of state, died of consumption, at Clinton Junction, last night, after a protracted illness of great suffering, which was borne with the patience and resignation characteristic of the victim of the disease most dreaded by mankind, Tim State Journal says: "Mrs. Park was a resident of Madison but a comparatively short time. Brief as was her sojourn here, she had made many friends, who will most sincerely mourn her death, and at the same time extend their sympathies to Mr. Park in his affliction. The funeral occurs at Clinton Junction at two o'clock next Thursday afternoon."

The Hon, E. D. Morgan, of New York. died on Wednesday. Governor Morgan was one of the great men of his time. He began life in a humble way, but rose to a position of influence and wealth. He was governor of New York from 1859 to 1863, and was United States senator for 1803 to 1809. He was major general of volunteers, but resigned to enter the senate. His reputation as a practical statesman rests chiefly upon his administration while governor of New York. It was marked by a past decrease in the state debt, an increase in the revenue rrom the causls, and a free use of the voto power. During the war it was mainly through his zoal that the state raised and equipped 250,000 men for the

WILLIAM E. SMITH.

An interesting Sketch foldis Life. · From the Milwaukee Sentinel. William E. Smith was born in Scotland. June 18, 1824, and omigrated with his parents to the United States early in childhood. The family located in New York city, where he acquired a very fair education in public schools. Upon reaching the age of manhood, young Smith came west and settled in Oakland county, Much. His experiences in the wolverine state did not prove satisfactory, hence in 1849 he removed to Wisconsin and set up as a merchant in the town of Fox Lake. His business venture prospered to such an extent that he soon acquired a competence. Shortly after settling down in Fox Lake, he interested himself in politics and represented his district in the state assembly in 1851. Thereafter he was a member of the state senate in 1858 and 1859 and again in 1864 and 1965. In the fall of 1865 he was chosen state treasurer, which office he filled for a second term, or until 1869. His election as state treasurer was followed by his retirement from business in Fox Lake, and after leaving that office he crossed the Atlantic with his family and spent some time in Europe, While abroad one of his daughters, a highly educated and charming young lady, died of malarial fever, in Rome On returning to his old Wisconsin home in 1871, he again entered the political arena, and aspired to become governor of the state. The powers that be in Washington, however, placed a curb on this laudable ambition by securing the nomination and election of C. C. Washburn. Then the people of his old Dedge county district returned him to the state assembly, and he presided over the delibera-tions of that body as speaker. The year following he removed to this city, where he formed a co-partnership with G. A. Roundy and Sidney Hauxhurst in the wholesale grocery trade, under the firm name of Smith, Roundy & Co. Although this new business venture prospered from the outset, Mr. Smith still indulged a quiet craving for political honors, and still hoped to become governor of the state. Accordingly he pitted himself against the ring backing of Harrison Ludington in 1875, and only withdrew his name at the last moment, when he found that Ludington had an absolute majority of the delegates in convention assembled. His turn came at last m position, and elected by a handsome plurality over Judge James A. Mallory, dem-

In 1879 he was again nominated and elected for a second term. Simultaneous ly with his election as the executive of ly with his election as the executive of the state government, he withdrew from the grocery business, only to resume it again in 1882, by forming a co-partnership with H. M. Mendel and his son, Ira Smith, under the firm name of Smith, Mendel & Co. In addition to the public position mentioned above, Mr. Smith also served as one of the directors of the state prison from 1874 until 1877. It can truthfully be said of him that he attained to the be said of him that he attained to the highest posttion of honor in the common-wealth of Wisconsin through the confidence which comes from strict and longtried integrity, unswerving loyalty, and unusual steadfastness to party alliliation. He has been a man of rare tact, good ability, and unblemished public and private reputation, and always ranked as one of the first citizen of the state; whether judged as a magistrate, a politician, a merchant, or a citizen in the walks of private life, he has been successful in every walk of life, winning the warm friendship and high esteem of everyone with whom he was brought in contact. His long service in the various legislative and executive departments of the state government has identified him with its political history almost uninterruptedly for a speriod of thirty years.

DEVASTATION.

Cincinnati Completely Cut Off from the Outside World by the Flood.

Tens of Thousands Rendered Homeless and Destitution Apparent Everywhere.

Fifteen Persons Believed to Have Perished by the Bursting of a Sewer Last Tuesday.

Money and Provisions Sorely Needed by the Afflicted People of the Floating City.

Terrible State of Affairs at Louisville and Other Points.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 15.-The feeling of relief

yesterday morning when it was known that the river bogan slowly falling Tuesday night was changed to almost alarm at Do'clock, when it again began to rise and continued to rise all day, reaching sixty-six feet at 8 o'clock, oleven inches above the night before. Mill creek, from the rains of Tuesday night, probably was from two to three feet higher, and even the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton road was compelled to suspend trains. The rise in the Ohio probably came from the Little Miami largely, which empties into the Ohio just above the city, and also from the Licking, just opposite the city. The rise of a foot in height extended the surface to a considerable extent, but the increased damage cannot be stated, and, in fact details are amazingly meager, and must be largely so till the waters sub-In many instances a second removal of goods stored at a supposed safe height was made, but the worst effect is on the railroad companies. To-day the city of Civcinnati has no connection with the outside world save by country roads over the hills and telegraph wires. The Cincinnati Northern, a narrow gauge that went over the hills, was the only one left, and a serious accident on that road has closed it for the present. The express companies have ceased to receive goods and will have to haul what they must send miles over the hills to points not reached by the water, and ship in all sorts of roundabout ways. The newspapers have to go to press an hour or two earlier to get any papers to country subscribers. The streets have been crowded with evicted thousands out of employment and curious spectators, all discussing feverishly the nows of the day here and from Louisville and points below where great damage is reported. People who live out of town found themselves unable to leave, and the hotels are crowded. Houses in the flooded districts are getting to be very unuate, and must be constantly watched. Sewors are bursting, and it becomes hourly more apparent that the damage will increase. Coal oil has gone up from 50 to, 100 per cent. and produce the same way. Even staple grocaries are put up by sonie dealers, and poor people, even when safely housed, must in many cases suffer from the high prices of their daily food; but the work of relief is going on with energy. Every society in the city even from Masonic lodges to church sewing circles, seems to have joined in, and everything is being done which is possible. Bishop Elder has sent to all his clergy, enjoining them to aid in every possible way. The Colliseum theatre has been placed at the disposal of the reller committee for the reception of the destitute. About $10,000 was raised by private aubscription, bosides the $100,000 at the council's disposal and outside gifts, the latter coming in rapidly from all quarters. Every one of the many thousands who need help gets it promptly, but their number is so great that it is impossible to get statistics. The decreasing water supply is causing uncasiness. Wasteful consumers are at once cut off. Saloons were allowed a barrol yesterday, and then their hydrants were mostly turned off.

Several small fires under suspicious circomstances have led to the belief that incondistism has been tried, to furnish opportunities for piunder. Every large consumer of coal as a rule has been obliged to stop work, because of inability to get fuel. In short, the city of Cincinnati, with her quarter of a million inhabitants, is helpless and stagnati in the presence of a calamity whose proportions have outgrown the wildest conjectures and almost destitute of song of the necessities of life, while surrounded at so short, yet at present inaccessible, distances by plenty.

The first suthentic report concerning the loss of life while surrounded at so short, yet at present inaccessible, distances by plenty.

The first suthentic report concerning the loss of life at the Cincinnati Scuthern depot was made to the police at the Oliver street station, by Harman Wilaberg, a boy, living at No. 17 Wilatacht street. He s. ys he and his brother Joseph, with thirleon other boys, were on the platform when the water; that he swam to Gest street, escaped, and went home; that his brother and all the other boys were drowned. It does not known the names of the other Loys. No other reports of missing have been mide to the police.

Wilsburg said that he and his brother Joseph had gone to McLean avenue to see the rising waters. Noteing a crowd around Ryan's saloon and eating house, they watked ever to it in order to see what was bappening. They were about affect of sea way from it when some one destitute. About $10,000 was raised by private aubscription, bosides the $100,000 at the coun-suddenly cried that the saloon was failing. Ho looked over his shoulder and saw the frail structure slide down the back. Then the ground shook and quivered. There was a shout of "look cut, it's going to cave in!" and all at once a yawning chasm opened at his feet. Mechanically he jumped and regained terra firms. As he did so, for one brief second he glanced behind him. His brother Joseph had gone down into the hollow with the sipping street and was caught in the imprisoning mire. Then another great cave of the yellow earth took place, and the young man was buried from sight, raising his hands and crying as the irresistible mass bore down upon him. Meanwhile Herman ran for his life. Four times the earth gave way beneath his feet and four times he leaped across the chasm when at length he reached a place of safety and stopped. The place where he and his brother had been standing was a miniature Niagara in which boiling water, crumbling earth broken beams and packages of freight were all trushing madily down into the hellow. With his brother and himself were at least fifteen persons, who were gathered in a group on that side of the avenue which first caved in, and those Herman believes to have been entimbed under the avalanche of mud. He saw no one escape, and he was the last one on that side of the bank to reach a place of safety.

There is another young follow, John Hayden, who is supposed to have been lost in the disaster. He left home Tuesday morning to see the flood, and he has not returned since. It is known that he was in the neighborhood of the depot when the brake our returned since. It is known that he was in the neighborhood of the depot when the brake courred. Whatever doubt there was at first in regard to the woman in the waiting-room is now at an ond. It is certain that the and her little child perished in the wild rush of the aggry wafers. She was in the waiting-room is now at an end. It is certain that she and her little child perished in the wild rush of the angry waters. She was seen in the depot while it was breaking up by several railroad enployes. The men about the depot are positive that she did not escape.

At Covington the high water has completely covered Third street, between Madison and Russell, and filled the collars on the upper side of Third street. Further wost the office of A. Montgemery & Co. has its floor completely submerged, and the water extends from that point west over the surface until it reaches the saloon of Martin Bonn, and there the saloon of Martin Bonn, and there the saloon of Martin Bonn, and there the huge hollow of Willow run extends one mass of dosolate, water, reaching in height nearly to the roof of the scap factory. Going senth along Willow run, the damage is terrible. The propasalk shells are turned upside down. The dwellings near the Lexington pike are upset and atleat. The tunyards are nearly tuder water, and the roof of the Helming sheds, on the north of the pike, is only just visible. The pike is still high and dry, but on the south side the backwater floods the hollows to the hills beyond Lindon Grove cometery. The connetery itself is above the ligods, but all the intervening hollows in that part of town are filled.

Cots and beals have been given to the sufferest by the flood. The Sedamsville cars have stopped running, thus cutting off all communication except by water with Riverside. At Riverside, below Sedamsville, the situation is becoming desperate, and beggars description. From the cliffs on the lower river road to the Kentucky shore, there is one continuous sheet of any in need of fuel. At Sedamsville, O., below Cincinnati, and a suburb the river has backed up into Baldface creek and spread out into a lake extending from the distillery to the foot of the long hill, At this point the tope of the lamp-posts in the roun are barely out of the water. This lake has closed in around Yearthean's bend and met the water coming up from fiversing, this maning a continuous sheet of water from the Sodansville mill, a distance of a mile along the river road.

It was reported that a number of Cincinnati thieves had visited Dayton, Ky., Monday night and burglarized the submerged district quite extensively. A vigilance committee patrolled the delinged localities in skiffs, armed with muskets and old pistels and choose-knives.

Most of the groceries in Dayton have sold completely out, and the only provisions that are received are throught over in skiffs. The relief committee were kept busy all day attending to the numerous wants of the destitute. A reporter was informed by one of the committee that over 140 families had been provided with provision and temporary hones.

Twolith street in Lewisburg stands eight feet under water, and a number of houses are submerged. There exists the danger of considerable suffering, the poor having sought cheap dwellings in the by-streets and alleys in temporary houses, and a thorough search in out of the way places will no doubt reveal a surprising amount of destitution and misery, if not death. The Independence pike is inunded at Al Sandrordtown many bouses are under water, and the pike almost impassable At Newport, Ky., the flood reached its highest point at 2 o'clock yesterday morning, when the mark of 1832 was left nearly eleven inches. At Belleville, Ky., things remain about the same, or are worse, if anything. The prices domanded by skiff owners had a telling offset. Ten cents for each passage or 50 cents an hour is all that is now charged. The chief, when he heard of a family in distress, at any hour of the night, proceeds to the scone, and, if necessary, he blows his whistle for the relief box. He has sontinols out on every square at all hours. The yater is three feet deep on the floor of Corpus Christi church. The floor was built above the high water mark of 1847.

The flood has backed into Bear Grass craek, which runs through the city, and it broke over the banks last evening. Thirty houses are under water to the first story.

The back-water of the Bear Grass rose ten inches in one hour, owing to breaks at other places, and flooded the Nelson malt-house and ware-rooms, and the Newcomb Buchan company's distilleries, destroying malt in large quantities. It is reported that two thousand barrels of whicky are under water.

The sower at Logan and Broadway burst this, morning, flooding the immediate vicinity without causing serious damage. The gas works are in imminent danger. The stone will put out the bres and wap the city in darkness.

The board of trade is doing splendid work in subscriptions. The council voted Tuesday night $5,000, to be followed by norelas needed. Private individuals are generous in tenders of aid, and no one need go hangry who will go to the designated points of distribution. No sahe man would attempt to estimate the amount of damago already done and to follow. The steamer Hayes yesterday made a trip with the mayor and a party, through the submerged districts. A manthailed the steamer and called for a physician. Dr. George W. Griffith went out in a skiff to the upper story of the house, where the man was found. His wife, Mrs. Starks, was in labor. The child was born during the physician's stay. Provision for the comfort of the mother and child was at once made.

OTHER POINTS.

Madison, Ind., Feb. 15.—Milton, Ky., opposite Madison, is completely submerged, not a house being exempt from the overflow. Large cables are being used to anelor the buildings. The water is to the second floor of many dwell.

Fulton, the eastern suburb of thus city, has ton abandoned, and all the front and extreme vectors sections of the city. The back water and Crooked creek have inundated the city on he north, and Springdale cemetery is partially severed with water. More rain will cause Drooked creek to deluge Walnut street and a large part of the town.

The steamer Hornet came from Carrollion resterday morning for food for the sufferers here. The provisions in the stores are exausted.

Cheveland, Feb. 15.—Rain has been falling reaterday morning for food for the sufficient shore. The provisions in the stores are expansed.

CLEYELAND, Feb. 15.—Rain has been falling and promises to continuo. The river is rising and another deluge is feared. Mon are busy suchoring lumber piles on the fluts, and yearday ice and driftwood gorges which obstruct he river at soveral points were blown up with dynamite. Every practical precaution is being taken against damage from the overflow which threaters.

INDLANPOLIS, Feb. 15.—The following private telegram has been received from Jeffersonville, Ind.: "Our city is flooded with water from two to twonty feet deep. Five thousand of our people are made homeless, many of them have lost all they possessed on earth. A large number of oottages and houses in the lower part of the city are swept away. Hundreds of peopleare quartered in the second stories of public buildings and business houses. Food is sent to them in skiffs. Filth from bundreds of privice is floating on the raging waters. The scenes of suffering are appalling. It is still raining and the river is rising. The loss will reach ever a half-million. My family, with my noighbors, are summerged. Told the printers to publish this. Ask relatives and all who will contribute to form a relier committee and send us what financial aid you can."

The following has been received from the operator at Guilford, this side of Lawrence-burg. The ear of provisions from Indianapolis was got to the people at Lawrenceburg in good condition yesterday morning. It is thought that if the rain continues the people will have to leave Lawrenceburg. No lives have been lost so far as gu bearnt."

▲ Duty Placed on Imported Books and Pictures After Lively Debate.

A Controversy Over the Attompt to Put Lumber on the Free List.

THE SENATE.

Washington, Feb. 15.—The sonato yesterday wrestled for some time over some parliamentary technicalities concerning the duty on books, which was entirely abolished in committee of the whole, and it was decided to fix the duty at 15 per cent. After the duty on books had been disposed of, the duty on bituminous coal was taken up. It is new 75 cents a ten. The finance committee made it 50, but it was restored to 75 cents by the committee of the whole. The entire ground of trade and protection was discussed and rediscussed with harmony by the high and low tariff Democrats. Mr. Davis of West Virginia, who come a coal mine or two, insisted on rotatining the higher rate. Mr. Vance wanted a reduction. Mr. German twitted Mr. Vance with keeping silent while protection was being voted to the people of his state on their production. Mr. Vance created laughter by saying that he could not be expected to object to what was given to his state without request. He had asked for nothing. Mr. Morgan charged Mr. Davis with trying to get the duty raised for his own bopedit, and Mr. Davis rotorted by twitting Mr. Morgan with having tried to get a duty imposed on raw silk. Mr. Salisbury and Mr. Beek went to the aid of Mr. Vance and Mr. Beek went to the aid of Mr. Vance and Mr. Beek went to the aid of Mr. Vance and Mr. Beek went to the aid of Mr. Vance and Mr. Beek went to the aid of Mr. Vance and Mr. Herid men on his own side of the chamber. Mr. THE SENATE. pointed speech in condemnation of the high-tariff men on his own side of the chamber. Mr. pointed speech in condemnation of the hightariff men on his own side of the chamber. Mr.
Brown, reinforced Mossrs. Davis and Gorman,
the latter of whom was duly rominded by Mr.
Morgan of his vote for more duty on bichromate of potash and loss on almost everything clso. Mr. Mavey was also accused of inconsistency, and also repited in his own bobalf. Altogether the best speech of the day was that of Mr. Jones, or Florida, who avoided the easy way of making good points by citing the inconsistences of his associates, and broadly discussed, the relations of imports to exports. He showed that we could not export to sell without restraint when we would not so buy. We must take pay in goods or specie, and we could not go on indefinitely drawing specia from abroad if we sent no specie back. At 5 o'clock Mr. Morrill created some aumesment by asking the Democrate to allow a vote to be taken, deploring their linte mpleasantness and assuring them that their little hands were never mide to serateb each other's eyes out, but he failed to procure a cassation of lostilities, and the war between the Democrats who wanted prefection for revente and erals who wanted protection for revenue and those who wanted protection for its own sake went on for another hour. At 6 o'clock a vote was taken, and the duty of 75 conts was sustained.
Lucifer matches were put in the bill at 35 per cont. ad valorom, the present rate, on motion cont ad valorom, the present rate, on motion of Mr. Bayard.

Sonator Bock, in answer to an inqury as to when he thought the tariff bill would pass the senate, said: Yesterday I thought it would be passed to-night. I loare, however, that there are some speeches to be made which will probably occupy all day to-neorow. I am pretty woll satisfied, however, that we shall reach a final vote some time to-morrow night." The impression pravails that there will be quite a number of Democratic votes against the bill, but not oneigh to prevent its passage by a very fair majority. THE HOUSE. Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—The house committee of the whole worked with much vigor yesterday. The last paragraph of the motal schedule and all the amendments proposed to it, as well as the substitute for the online schedule, were disposed of during the first hour or two of the session, and the schedule of wood was then taken up, with the evident determination to finish. This was done. The reading of the first clause was the signal for a dotomination to finish. This was dono. The reading of the first clause was the signal for a general debate, involving the meries of the whole system of a protective duty on lumber in all its forms. Mr. Hollman, who wanted square timber pisced on the free list, went over the whole ground of objection in the lumber tartif in a speech which attracted much more attention than his speeches usually do. The two points made by him were that the duty should be taken off for the benefit of consumers, in the first piace, and, in the second place, to encourtaken off for the bonedt of consumors, in the first place, and, in the second place, to encourage the preservation and growth of American forests. Herr replied in a ten-minute speech which bristled with figures and statistics, showing the magnitude of the lumber industry, and its relations to other industries, especially to agriculture. He read some figures showing the business of a single firm in Illinois, which, he said, had found a market during the last year for hundreds of thousands of bushols of oats, corn, etc., in the lumber districts of year for interests of indusants of business of oats, corn, ctc., in the lumber districts of Michigan. Anderson, of Kansas, who took a very prominent part in the discussions during the entire day, read the resolutions of the Kansas legislature instructing the son-ators and requesting the representatives from that state to use all their offers to have lumber placed on the free list. ators and requesting the representatives from that state to use all their offerts to have from that state to use all their offerts to have lumber placed on the free list. He also declared that his position on the question was in harmony with lie position to the question was in harmony with lie position taken by fire Republican party in its instance of Wisconsin, argued for free lumber and forest protection, while the other German representative from the same state alvocated the rate of duty proposed by the bill, and declared that free lumber would tend to the destruction rather than the proservation of American forests, Hopburn, of Iowa, also advocated free lumber. The amendment was rejected by a vote of 55 to 102, headment was rejected by a vote of 55 to 102, headment there to one. This was a test vote, and although the discussions were renewed from time to time, and a number of amendment were proposed and voted upon, all of them were rejected except a verbal amendment to perfect one of the clauses. The house is more highly protective than the sensite. There was a little scene between Anderson and Horr. He said: "We do not unforstand the gentleman from Kansas. He appears to be laboring under a cort of delucion, and I want to plead in his behalf, for sweet charity's sake. He talks like a free-trader, but he is not a free-trader, for he says he is not, and I am bound to take him at his word," Andorson struggled to interrput Horr for a reply, He finally made a very stong speech in defense of his votes.

The Defendant Testifies and Tells a Very Damaging Story Against Mes. Cougar. LAFAYETTE, Ind., Feb. 15.—The main issue in the Gougar-Mundler case was reached yesterday morning by the placing of the defect-ant, Harry Mandler, chief of police on the stand. Mandler told a straight story and has not been shaken in the cross-examination. In substance he stated as follows: "On Sunday evening, Nov. 29, after I had seen the police force go off on duty, I walked around the street, finally stopping in front of Capt. Wallace's office. Charles Poocke came along, but soon left, and when he returned he stated that Capt. Wallace and Mrs. Gongar had been coming toward the office when he went off, and that he had followed them. We then stood opposite Wallace's office, and soon after Wallace and Mrs. Gongar came along and went up-stairs. I remained within about forty fort of the stainway matil 12 o'clock, when they came down and threed up street. I followed, and at the second thock caught up and called out 'Captain' P but he did not clop. I called again and the man and woman stopped, and I said: "Good evening, captain: I thought I could not be mistaken,' and there of they after, Capt. Wallace, as Capt. Jewott Wallace and Mrs. Holen M. Gongar. A few days after, Capt. Wallace called me into his olice and wanted the to deep the statement in the presence of Capt. Rice. I refused to talk before witnesses. Rice then went out. I told Wallace that for the sake of his wife and family I would don't feel he street themeth I could wet Poock to do the street, finally stopping in front of Capt Waltold Wallace that for the sale of his wife and family I would dony the story on the street, and that I thought I could get Pooch to do the same, but that if I was put on oath I would have to make my statement just as I have repeated it." Mandler was put through a severe cross-examination, but has not contradicted himself, and will be on the stand again on Thursday. From the standing of Mandler in the community for truth and veracity, this is the hardest blow the complainant has yet received. A NEW DISCOVERY.

On Saturday evening February 10, a large number of invited guests assem-bled at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gould. It was not until some time after their arrival that they became aware that they had met to celebrate the twenty-second anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Gould's marriage, thus reversing the usual order of surprise parties in Lima,—surprising the guests instead of the host and hostess. Everyone scemed in the best of spirits, and the evening experience and the gloominess of that passed but too quickly away. Scientific month in England—that November is the favorite month of suicides, the facts the hours away. A supper was served at which kings might have been glad to sit down to. The loaded dishes were grad-tive powers, and its peculiar action upon the stomach and digestive organs. It is a positive and absolute cure for costiveness and constitution, acting in a remarkable way upon the system, carrying off impurities. As a Liver regulator its actions are remarkable. It tones and stimulates the Liver to action, it corrects the acids and regulates the bowels. A few doses will surprise you. Sample bottles 10 cents. Sold by Prentice & Evenson.

Stewart's Superstition. Workmen are busy making alterations in the white marble building at Broadway and Chambers Street, which was once A. T. Stewart's down-town dry goods store. Judge Hilton could not get his price for it, though he had vainly tried to sell it to the Herald and he is having it fitted up for offices. With the interior change other alterations will come which will blot out the memories of the shrewd merchant who created a fortune in its walls. Stewart never had. a sign upon the building, but by next spring it will be covered with gilded lettering. When he first built there the lessee of the central lot, on which an old two-story brick structure stood, refused to sell out except at an exorbitant price, so Stewart reared his white marble walls on each side of the dingy edifice and quietly waited until the lease had expired. The man's trade was killed in the meantime. I seldom pass the building but I seem to see sitting on its front step the old wrinkled woman who crouched there in a wooden hutch year in and year out, with a basket of apples by side. She never seemed to be less than ninety years of age, and she paid no attention to her sales; of fruit. People wondered why Stewart tolerated her there, and they little dreamed that he allowed her a pension. The canny Scotch merchant, with all his hard-headed craft, was very superstitious, and believed that her presence brought him luck. When he moved to his up-town store the old woman, with her crutch and basket. was sent up-town in a carriage, and resumed her watch on the front steps. One day she was missing, and soon after it was learned that she had died and had been buried at Stewart's expense. The schoolboys of that day had a wonderful reverence for the wrinkled beldame, for they had been told that she was a cross between a witch and a detective and never forgot a face which had crossed the threshold of the store, though no urchin had even seen the color of her eyes. -N

Y. Letter. -A St. Louis station agent recently picked up something which made him blush and hurry to inde it in his pocket. Shortly afterward a rich-looking gentleman, approaching him hasked him if he had found anything of value. "No," said he. "Excuse me," said the gentleman, "but I saw you pick it up just now." The agent was on the point of denving it again, when suddenly reblush and hurry to hide it in his pocket.

of denying it again, when, suddenly re-collecting he pulled it out of his pocket, saying: "That's it; but I don't think saying: "That's nt, out I don't tink it's so much value." The gentleman, thereupon showing him an elegant gold buckle adorned with a couple of diamonds worth $200, walked off and handed the garter to his delighted wife.

Statistics of Suicide.

The statistics just made public of snicides in the United States during the autumn months of 1882 present some curious and interesting facts. During the three months, September, October and November, the total number of suicides in the country was 424. Contrary to the general opinion-based on English show the largest number in September and the smallest in November. The age at which suicide was committed in the greatest number was thirty-five, the number being seventeen. The next highest number was eleven at an age of fifty. Nine individuals found out at the age of sixty-five that they could endure no longer the ills that flesh is helr to, while one kept up the struggle until ninety, and then abandoned it. The youngest suicide was at the age of ten, and there were twelve under the age of twenty.

Among the causes "family trouble" stood pre-eminent, being credited with fifty-seven deaths. Sickness came next with forty-eight. Then followed "dissi-pation" with thirty-nine, "business trouble" with thirty-seven, "insanity" with twenty-nine, "love trouble" with twenty-one and "destitution" with eleven. "Griof" was responsible for five cases, "chagrin at parental discipline" for four, "religious delusion" two: while "jealousy," "homesickness" and "disappointment at election" were responsible for one each. Considered with reference in their condition in life the greatest number of snieldes was from the ranks of husbands. of whom there are 144. Bachelors came next, sixty-eight in number, followed by fifty-three wives, thirty-one maids, thirteen widowers and eight widows. Of divorced persons there was but one-a Singularly enough, the agricultural profession furnished the greatest number, the table showing lifty-four furners. Of merchants there were twenty-eight; clerks, twelve: printers, five; painters. four; lawyers, four; blacksmiths, three, and barbers, two.

Nationally considered the Americans were in the front rank with 155 spicides. The Germans came next with 118, then the English with fifty-nine, the Irish with forty-one, the Scotch with thirty, the French, with five, the Africans with four, the Norwegians with three and the Chinese with one. Fifty-five of the number came from Ohio, fifty-one from New York, forty-six from Illinois, thirtythree from Pennsylvania, twenty-six from Missouri, twenty-five from Indiana. ifteen from Kentucky and fourteen each from Iowa and Mirhigan. Daylight was selected for the commission of the act in 244 of the cases, the rest were under the cover of night. The favorite days of the mouth were the 3d, 25th and 36th, on each of which there were nineteen spicides. On the 5th, 6th, 14th, 22d and 81st there were but eight each .- Detroit Free Press.

-A Georgia man and his wife fell out about different religious creeds, and ended their quarrel by agreeing to get a divorce. They went to Atlanta, consulted a lawyer, were there laughed out of their purpose, shook hands, kissed, paid the lawyer, bought heaps of candy for the children and returned home happier than before.

Rev. E. E. Clough, Sparta, Wis., Pre siding Elder La Crosse District, Wisconsin Conference, M. E. Church, says: "I ought to write concerning the benefits received from Cole's Carbolisalve. From the army I inherited many disabilities, among which itching piles. While suffering severely, I was given a box of Carbolisalve by a friend, who had been benefitted by it. It gave me almost instantaneous relief, and since then I have made it a household remedy, with unvarying success. I have advised hundreds to use it, and have received from many of them valuable testimony as to its merits. It is a valuable remedy, and I wish the proprietors unbounded success in pushing it into general use."

THE BANQUET.

The grand lodge of the state of Wisconsin Knights of Pythias, closed its annual session for 1883 in this city last evening, by a grand banquet and ball at the Myers house, which had been arranged by the members of Oriental lodge No. 22, of this city, for the entertainment of their guests. The business of the grand body was concluded at yesterday afternoon's session, and a few of the members returned to their homes on the early evening trains. At eight o'clock the ball was opened according to the programme in Young America hall, adjoining the Myers house, Anderson's orchestra furnishing the music for the occasion, and at ten o'clock the party were conducted to the banquet hall, where the gay and happy party partook of one of the most sumptuous suppers ever prepared in the Myers house. About two hundred ladies and gentiemen were scated at the tables. Everybody was more than satisfied with the reception given the visiting members.

Grand Chancellor Ogden H. Fethers, of this city, acted as toast-master at the banquet table, and several very humorous and pointed speeches were made by different gentlemen in responding to the toasts assigned them. At the conclusion of the banquet the party again repaired to Young America hall, and indulged in a social dance until two o'clock, the time for breaking up, and all then sought their respective homes, well pleased over the pleasures of the past evening.

Soon after the camp fire Adjutant Harlow procured a badge and forwarded it to Mrs. McNett, at her home in Illinois, at the same time informing her that she could informally consider herself an honorary member of W. Two years ago, when Messrs. C. B. Con. rail and G. W.
